Property Is Still Missing

The Vienna Jewish Community Organization, which claims that before war it was the wealthiest Jewish institution in Europe, has found it impossible to make headway toward recovering 200 buildings and parcels of land which constituted its endowment.

Leaders declared that this was one of the most striking of many examples of failure to get restitution of property stolen by the Nazis even where there was no question of the rightful owner or of the circumstances under which the theft was effected.

This property, belonging to a legally recognized non-profit institution, was seized by the Gestapo and sold publicly. The 14,000,000 marks for which it was sold was sent to a Gestapo-controlled fund in Prague called the Jewish emigration fund.

Among the Jewish Community's installations were a hospital, a home for the blind, two children's homes, an old-age home, a secondary school and several primary schools. There had apparently never been any doubt that the Jewish Community was strictly a charitable and educational institution, or that its 200 pieces of property were an endowment employed entirely to support its charitable activities in the interests of Austrian Jews.

Not even the properties taken over by the municipality of Vienna while it was under the Nazis have been returned except its bomb-damaged old-age home which is being used to house Jews who cannot get back into their own homes.

No Ill-Will Found At N.Y.C.C.

Charges of anti-Semitism in the Romance languages department of City College, in New York, have "no tangible support" in evidence, the General Faculty of the college decided.

Meeting at a closed three-and-a-half hour session, the General Faculty accepted in toto the report of the special committee it appointed last May to investigate charges brought by four professors in the department, and passed a resolution asking that Dr. Harry N. Wright, president of the college, take "appropriate action" against the four men for "the manner in which the complainants brought charges against certain members of the Romance languages department and the way in which charges were repeated and made public," and for "conduct unbecoming members of the staff."

Two of the professors, Dr. Ephraim Cross and Dr. Elliot H. Polinger, were allowed to attend the session briefly. Both spoke against the report, which they previously had characterised as "a complete whitewash which distorts the facts." The two others, Professors Bach-y-Rita and Otto Muller, did not appear.

Last April all four asked the Board of Higher Education to investigate the department, charging that opponents of Professor William E. Knickerbocker, chairman, had for seven years "been subjected to continual harassment and what looks very much like discrimination." They subsequently charged Professor Knickerbocker and members of his "re-

Says Partition Only Solution

Leopold S. Amery, former British Secretary of State for India and former Colonial Secretary, declared in London that the only solution of the Palestine problem was to partition the country into independent Arab and Jewish States.

Testifying for two hours Mr. Amery told the Anglo-American Commmittee of Inquiry on Palestine that "by giving these two gifted peoples some form of self-government" they would be too occupied with political and administrative problems to entertain any idea of invading each other's territory."

"There would still be the responsibility of having enough troops in Palestine, either by mandatory or trustee power, to prevent trouble along the borders of two areas," he said.

Mr. Amery's scheme called for trustee or mandatory power to provide armed guards for the holy places of Jerusalem and Bathlehem, which, he said, should not be left to either contestant.

Mr. Amery said the British Government had always considered its mandate for Palestine as preparation for the country's self-government. He had hoped, he added that "common Palestinian patriotism" would evolve from Jews and Arabs living and working together to enable them to contribute to a self-governing Palestine. But events had changed his mind.

"I am now firmly convinced that the division of Palestine into areas for both Jews and Arabs is the only solution," he said. "Both sides have aspirations for self-government and both feel fit for it."

His suggestion for partitioning drew from Justice Sir John E. Singleton, British chairman of London hearings, the comment that it had been proposed once before by a commission and turned down [illegible]

The committee also heard testimony from representatives of the Jewish Fellowship which holds that the Jews are a religious community but not a political national group; the Anglo-Jewish Association and Dr. James Parkes, pro-Zionist historian and student of Jewish affairs.

A deputation of fifteen represented the Jewish Fellowship and Maj. Sir Brunel Cohen, its president; Basil L. Q. Henriques, Col. Louis H. Gluckstein and Daniell L. Lipson, Independent M. P., spoke for the organization.

A memorandum submitted by the organization said that Jewish emigration and resettlement from Europe should be the responsibility of the United Nations Organization and should be carried out

Defies Britain To Restrict Land

Speakers at a conference in Munich of the United Jews of Germany charged that Britain was establishing a ghetto in Palestine and "sending the British Navy, the RAF, and airborne troops for their new and bloodiest test—to hunt Jews."

David Ben Gurion, head of the Jewish Agency in Palestine, charged that Nazi-like Nuremberg laws were enforced in Palestine and that the British "maltreated and searched like criminals" an American plane crew sent to Palestine to obtain books for Jewish displaced persons in Germany.

Mr. Ben Gurion said Jews were restricted to five per cent of Palestine's land, as well as being barred from further entry, but that "we will not respect this kind of law." He added that Jews continuously were being smuggled into Palestine and that three new communities had been started in prohibited areas.

He also assailed the recent statement of Lieut. Gen. Sir Frederick Morgan, UNRRA operations chief in Germany, that a secret organization existed for getting Jews out of Europe and into Palestine, saying that the "secret was made public to the world in 1897 by the Zionist Congress."

Among those attending the conference, held in a room in the Munich City Hall, were ninety delegates from twenty-one Jewish displaced persons camps in the American zone as well as committees

Morgan Restored By Lehman; Apologizes But Stands By Immigration Statement

Lieutenant General Sir Frederick E. Morgan, who was suspended January 4 as chief of operations in Germany of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration for remarks at a press conference which were interpreted by some as inferring there were "sinister" motives in the movement of displaced Jews in Europe, was fully restored to duty by Herbert H. Lehman, in Washington now, director of the U.N.R.R.A.

Mr. Lehman, former Governor of New York, announced his decision after several days of conferences with General Morgan held at the latter's request, says the New York Herald Tribune. In revealing his decision to reinstate General Morgan, Mr. Lehman made public a long letter of apology written in New York by the General, expressing "deepest regret" for unintentionally laying the U.N.R.R.A. open to possible charges of political or racial bias and also "clearly" rejecting any such bias "for my part."

Mr. Lerman, in an accompanying statement, said he had given "most serious consideration" to all the circumstances involved in the case and that he believed General Morgan "did not intend to impute sinister motives to individuals or organizations seeking to

The marriage of Dorothy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Golomb, 432 Markham Street, to Reuben Farberman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Farberman, 37 Augusta Avenue, took place on Sunday, November 26, at five o'clock, at the Shaarei Tzedeck Congregation, Rabbi David Monson officiating. The bride was given in marriage by her parents. Her gown was of white satin, fashioned with a lace top and peplum, sweetheart neckline, long pointed sleeves, and a full skirt. Her finger-tip veil was caught to a white feathered halo headdress, and she carried a white Bible decorated with orchids and streamers of white satin, caught with white roses and buds. Miss Sandra Farberman, sister of the groom, was maid of honour, wearing blue brocaded satin, with a net skirt, sweetheart neckline, and long blue gloves. Her headdress was a blue feathered calot and veil, and she carried a nosegay of roses. The bridesmaids, Misses Ida Golomb, sister of the bride; Muriel Golomb, cousin of the bride; and Esther Rotterman, wore afternoon dresses in pastel shades, with long gloves, and matching feather calots and veiling, and they carried nosegays of red roses. Roslyn Trotzky, cousin of the bride, and Marlene Cass, cousin of the groom, were flower girls, the former wearing a blue taffeta dress and bonnet, and the latter an American Beauty-colored velvet dress and bonnet; and they carried nosegays of roses. Myer Golomb, brother of the bride, was best man, and the ushers were: Murray Tobias, Harry Crystal, and Morris Farberman, brother of the groom. Sol. Farberman, the groom's brother, acted as ring-bearer, wearing a full dress suit and top hat. The wedding music was played by Max Kramer, and during the ceremony, Miss Tanya Greenberg sang "Because". The bride's mother, Mrs. Golomb, received, wearing a black dress, trimmed with sequins, and corsage of red roses. The groom's mother, Mrs. Farberman, wore a dress of navy-blue lace, and a corsage of red roses. For the wedding trip to New York, the bride wore a navy suit, an American Beauty-colored coat with Persian lamb tuxedo, black accessories, and a corsage of orchids. The bride and groom will reside at 432 Markham Street. Out-of-town guests were: Mrs. M. Kalechman, of Montreal, Que.; Mr. and Mrs. D. Fritz, and Robert Fritz, of Boston, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. I. Trotzky, of Pittsburgh, Pa.; A. Dillon, of Chelsea, Mass.; and Irving Borinsky, of Stouffville.

COOPER-KAGAN

The marriage of Goldie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kagan, 256 Crawford Street, to Fred Cooper, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. Cooper, 669 Queen Street West, took place on Sunday, January 29, at six o'clock, at Shaw Street Synagogue, Rabbi I. Hurwitz and Rabbi D. Monson officiating, assisted by Cantor P. Drutz. The bride was given in marriage by her father. Wearing a white satin gown, fashioned with a sweetheart neckline, long pointed sleeves, a fitted torso-length bodice, and full skirt extending to a long train, she had a finger-tip veil, caught to a round crown, and carried a bouquet of Calla lilies. Miss Adele Kagan, sister of the bride, was her only attendant, and wore a turquoise-blue crepe afternoon dress, trimmed with violet-coloured sequins, with a draped skirt, and long turquoise-blue gloves and a violet-coloured feather hat with veil, and carried a bouquet of multi-coloured roses. Al. Lofsky attended the groom as best man. The bride's mother, Mrs. Kagan, received in a black dress, trimmed with sequins and having a draped skirt, with corsage of red roses. The groom's mother, Mrs. Cooper, wore a black dress, trimmed with sequins, and a corsage of red roses. For the wedding trip to New York, the bride travelled in a tan gabardine suit and Persian lamb coat, with black accessories, and a winter-white hat. Mr. and Mrs. Cooper will reside in Toronto. Out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bregman, of Yonkers, N.Y.; Mrs. Anna Poskanzer, of Albany, N.Y.; and Mrs. M. Adler, of Detroit, Mich.

WAR CASUALTY MAKES GOOD

In Sept. 1944, with the Carlton & York regiment on an Italian battlefield, Pte. Wm. Solomon fell seriously wounded, resulting in the amputation of a leg. Just one year later, Bill became a life underwriter.

His enthusiasm for learning coupled with his sparkling personality is evidenced in his results to date. He was active in the 8th and 9th Victory Loans and earned the reputation of "spark-plug" on his team of salesmen. Mr. Solomon is associated with the Cooper-Fisher Agency of Confederation Life Association, with head offices in Toronto.

New Business Up 8½%; Assets Show Increase

Report of North American Life Assurance Company for 1945 reveals a progressive year. New business totalled $43.7 million, of which new assurances totalled $40.4 million, an increase of 8¼ per cent over 1944.

Business in force showed a net gain of $27.4 million, bringing total to $362 million. Premium receipts totalled $10.7 million against $9.8 million in 1944.

At the annual meeting in Toronto, D. E. Kilgour, president and managing director, pointed out that new business increased steadily during the war, rising from $24.8 million in 1939 to the 1945 total of $43.7 million, while total business in force rose from $239.4 in 1939 to $362 in 1945.

W. M Anderson, general manager, announced that gross death claims and net incurred death losses were significantly lower than in 1944, notwithstanding a larger amount of risk carried.

At the end of 1945 the company's holdings of Dominion Government obligations totalled $47.3 million, or over 50 per cent of invested assets.

Total assets reached $96.4 million, an increase of nearly $7 million for the year.

Mr. Anderson noted that shortly after the war ended the company commenced issuing policies free of war restrictions and at the same time the war clauses in existing policies were waived. This principle, he added, has been in accord with that followed by other companies.

Mr. Jack Greenbaum and family wish to express to their many friends their sincere thanks for their many kind remembrances during their recent bereavement.

Leslie Pidgeon — In Memoriam

The death of the Rev. Dr. Leslie Pidgeon, distinguished minister of Erskine American Church, of Montreal, has caused profound sorrow to his colleagues and friends and regret throughout the Dominion. Ever since our arrival in Montreal we have come to know and number Dr. Pidgeon among our closest of friends and co-workers.

He was, indeed, an apostle of goodwill. He gave of his gifts of mind and heart in the cause of Christian-Jewish fellowship. We recall that one of his happiest days was the occasion when I, a Rabbi, was unanimously invited by his Church Session to preach from his own pulpit even as he on occasions graced the pulpit of Temple Emanu-El.

He was a courageous preacher of righteousness, never favoring mass or class, and thus ever true to the prophetic tradition. The most impressive work of art is that which a man makes of his life. When we think of all that Leslie Pidgeon has given to those who knew him, the noblest gift is surely his own life. One felt blessed when near him for he was always himself.

Leslie Pidgeon's life is now completed. We thank God that such a noble man came our way and felt our hand. His friendship for us made us less lonely in a complex and often an unfriendly world. May God bless and hallow the memory and the heritage of this noble preacher of righteousness, Leslie Pidgeon.

A Letter Of Appreciation

The following letter is from Ethel Sperber Berzan, (Mrs. Ralph Berzan), 38 Johnson Avenue, Coaticook, Quebec:

I can hardly tell you how deeply moved I was after reading your most interesting and inspiring editorial in last week's Canadian Jewish Review concerning the guidance of our children in traditional ways of Judaism.

For the past six years I have lived amongst an almost entirely Gentile community, and often at various social functions I have been asked innumerable questions pertaining to our religion, e.g. to explain the significance of certain holidays, and the procedure of certain ceremonies characteristic of our race. Never am I more truly thankful for a thorough Jewish upbringing than when I am able to expound and enlighten such inquiry, based on my teachings, and on what I had seen enacted and sanctified in our home and in the Synagogue, since childhood.

How indescribably sad, how shameful a predicament, if I, of a different faith, were wholly unaware of our customs, and completely oblivious of our grand and noble heritage. For how can we possibly gain the respect of our Gentile neighbours if we ourselves do not respect our national glories, or practice our beliefs? ——

Thus we felt, dear Rabbi, my husband and I, that your kind message, your invaluable counsel to parents in educating their children in the ways of Judaism was hardly over-emphasized, and will, we feel sure, be followed and adhered to by untold numbers, righteously, assiduously and with all the zeal and integrity it merits. Certainly, the responsibility lies with us in guiding and directing our children in proper channels befitting our religion and tradition, so that they may walk with head erect and never falter.

Since we are far removed from the nucleus of Jewish life, the Synagogue, our task will be an exceedingly difficult one. However, we firmly believe that the basis, the inner kernal of our religion lies in the home, and until such time as we are able to resume activities and worship in the Synagogue, not only on High Holidays but every Sabbath Day, then the seeds of a firm foundation will have already been sown and nurtured.

I realize full well the important role a mother must play in the home as exemplar, and when she is fortunate in having the substantiation, the full co-operation of her husband, then a more unified, happy and blessed home is theirs.

When we behold the rapt expression of wonderment in the eyes of our two little children, through the Benediction of the Sabbath candles and during Kiddush, then we know that the spirit of our religion has "caught", as you so aptly expressed the word, and we pray, too, that they will forever remain as indissolubly and inextricably bound to that selfsame spirit of Jewish religion as were their progenitors.

Heartfelt thanks and deep appreciation for your inspirational editorial.

ETHEL SPERBER BERZAN.

"Sometimes when people censure me,
I tell them without reason
That for what it cost me to be free,
I might have had an anchor."

In the Review of January 25, this column, writing on Jewish resistance in Palestine, cited the fact that, by its own declarations, orthodox Zionism has become a resistance movement. It gave as an example of outspoken expression the part of the political resolution passed by the forty-eighth convention of the Zionist Organization of America, in November, which said: "The British Government is driving loyal Jewish Palestine to resistance in defense of its rights. Its struggle is our own. We will extend it every assistance." In that editorial, this writer described Jewish resistance to the British Government in Palestine, but merely referred to the fact that there are numerous implications inherent in it for Jews outside of Palestine, intending to comment on this subject at a later time, which is now.

The policy of David Ben Gurion, executive chairman of the Jewish Agency For Palestine, is one that should be fully understood by every Jew, whether he is a Zionist or a non-Zionist or an anti-Zionist since, as time goes on, it may have deep meaning for him, especially if he lives in the British Empire or its ally, the United States. The Jewish Agency For Palestine, which is made up of Zionists and non-Zionists of the world, is now addressed to a policy of resistance to the mandatory government which is Great Britain. Ben Gurion's course of action consists of armed resistance, through the Haganah, self-defense organization of Palestinian Jewry, to government attempts to stop illegal Jewish immigration; armed resistance to government attempts to stop illegal colonization of waste lands; and armed resistance to government attempts to disarm members of Haganah.

In the view of Ben Gurion, and of the Jewish Agency For Palestine, for which he speaks, this is the only way left open now to deal with the mandatory power. In other words, his policy is a last-resort policy, and thus one which calls for more than automatic acceptance, particularly since it involves not only the rank and file of the Zionist Organizations but commits all other Jews, as well.

Naturally, this column cannot claim to know whether the authorized Zionist policy of resistance in Palestine will work to convince the British Government to accede to Zionist demands there, succeeding where negotiation and persuasion could not. This line of action may only crystallize government determination to go through with British edicts in pursuit of prepared plans, whatever these are in the larger sphere. In Palestine the policy of resistance against the mandatory power may reduce the settlement to a state of chaos because of the very nature of armed resistance, especially in the presence of two terroristic Jewish groups who are bent on the achievement of their aims through violence, operating apart from the Haganah which is unofficially sponsored by the Jewish Agency. The whole thing might get out of hand and just be hot-headed, headlong unrestraint at fanatical tempo. This writer is interested, as every Jew should be, in every phase and facet of this whole question, but it is concerned here at this time mainly with the effects of the resistance policy in Palestine upon Jewry outside of that country, chiefly the Jews of the British Commonwealth and of the United States.

The pro-Zionist London Jewish Chronicle reflects Jewish nervousness over this situation. Quoting Friedman Yellin, terrorist leader of the Fighters For Freedom group in Palestine, as having said, "We are at war with the British Empire now," the Chronicle says: "It would be childish and cowardly to attempt to hide the obvious fact that these declarations, revealing both the attitude of the resistance movements and the fact that their objects, though not necessarily their methods, are not opposed by Palestine Jewry, cannot but disquiet Jews in this country. To British Jews, as indeed to Jews everywhere, including the resistance movements themselves, such serious differences between themselves and the British Government are not only intensely distasteful but a source of anxiety.... Any divergence of interests between Anglo-Jewry and the Yishuv could not but be viewed here with profoundest regret. Nevertheless, should such a divergence seem to appear, it would be foolish in the extreme either to attempt to smother it and 'pretend' it away, or, on the other hand, to fall into panic and resort to the usual alternatives of that emotional state in such circumstances: violent bad temper against, or patriotic heroics for, one or other of the parties concerned. The feelings of many English Jews are understandable.... It is no disgrace to any of the three parties under consideration, the Jews of this country, the Yishuv, and Great Britain, to seek to discern their own interests in the widest sense and to pursue them.... The first and proper consideration of many British Jews is what effect, if any, the political position in Palestine will have on their relations with their non-Jewish fellow-citizens, or their interests. There is no need to be ashamed about this concern: and fortunately there is little to suggest that the answer to this question will be what many British Jews understandably fear. Those who know the British temperament do not rate it so poor a thing as to be largely inclined to 'take it out' of Jews here because of a quarrel between the British Government and Palestine Jewry."

There it is, the real worry. The leader of the Fighters For Freedom group in Palestine may be able to say there in Palestine, coolly, frankly, and perhaps even with some satisfaction: "We are at war with the British Empire now." But in England the increase in anti-Jewish resentment is being ascribed to the fact that British soldiers are being shot by Jews, without any reference to the whole tragic tangle of circumstances around this fact and the reasons for a conflict in which Jews are being shot by British soldiers who, without a doubt, hate doing it.

It is something of an over-simplification while whistling in the dark for the London Jewish Chronicle to call this mess "a quarrel between the British Government and Palestine Jewry" when Zionist leaders within the empire and elsewhere have not hesitated, but, on the contrary, have advanced to proclaim their support of the Palestine Jewish settlement against the course of action of the British government. For any one to call the British government in this instance the "Colonial Office" or the "Palestine Administration" is an evasion of the fact that to support the resistance policy, even though it has moral right on its side, is to be an element against the present government which the people put in power, to the extent of using illegal means. For the Jews living in England this is more like dynamite than a drink of water, and they know it.

It is big-hearted of the moment for Rabbi Abba Hillel Silver, president of the Zionist Organization of America, to say in New York to the National Administrative Council: "The Jews of Palestine are determined to defend the soil at all costs. They are counting very heavily upon us to give them not only the strength of our numbers and the strength of our financial support, but to give them the best thinking and the most courageous thinking that we are capable of." What will Silver say if and when American soldiers join British soldiers in battle dress in Palestine, in case the recommendations of the Anglo-American Committee of Inquiry have to be enforced?

It is the right of every Jew to know. Silver is correct when he says that this situation needs "the best thinking and the most courageous thinking that we are capable of." A letter-writer in the London Jewish Chronicle says: "It would be idle to saddle Britain with the whole, or even perhaps the major responsibility for the present impasse. We must frankly examine and recognize the shortcomings of Zionist leadership and policy.... Even within its own confines, Zionism is not a democracy based upon an informed and thinking membership. Decisions are taken and then imposed upon the rank and file. There is a conscious and deliberate attempt to keep the real facts of the situation from the Jewish people."

There are going to be more such samples of expressed misgiving among Zionists and other Jews against the full implications of Jewish Agency policy for Palestine, just as soon as people get their bearings a little better and with that their courage to speak up about a situation that needs to be thought through to its logical conclusion.

PROPERTY IS

stress that they need more than even the income that they might be able to get from the properties since most Jews who have returned to Vienna are destitute. The Jews waiting at the agency's office to get help have the dried faces of persons who have been undernourished or starved for years. Frightened, they scuttle out of the way. Every gesture, every apologetic, carefully chosen word is a reminder of what the Nazis had done even to those who survived the concentration camps.

The vehement complaints of the Socialist party that it cannot recover its properties in Vienna are probably an indication of the Jews' failure to get restitution, which is largely due to the feebleness of the Government rather than to anti-Semitism, although there is much of the latter in Vienna.

The Socialists built a large number of workers' schooling and recreation centres, cooperative stores, kindergartens and gymnasiums before their party was crushed in 1934 by Austrian Fascists. These were seized first by Austrians and later by the Germans.

The Government has promised the Socialists that they shall have all these buildings back, but now the Communists have them. When Vienna was captured by the Red Army the Communists moved into Socialist properties believing that their party would replace the Socialists as representatives of the Vienna working class. The overwhelming defeat of the Communists in the elections and the Socialist victory in Vienna frustrated this hope.

Nevertheless, the Government has found it impossible to get the Communists to leave the Socialists' property, though the Mayor of Vienna is a Socialist.

improve the sorry plight of groups of displaced persons."

The trouble started in Frankfurt am Main, Germany, on January 2 at a press conference held by General Morgan in which he remarked that a secret Jewish organization was promoting an exodus of thousands of Jews from Poland to Germany, with Palestine as their ultimate destination, and that this was complicating the displaced persons problem in Germany.

On January 4, General Morgan was notified by Mr. Lehman that he was being suspended for these remarks, since they went outside the scope of his authority and that of the U.N.R.R.A. itself. General Morgan, refusing to resign, immediately cabled that he would like to come to Washington for personal talks with the director, Mr. Lehman agreed, and on January 18 lifted the ouster order temporarily.

Mr. Lehman announced that as a result of the talks held in New York he felt justified in restoring General Morgan to duty as chief of the U.N.R.R.A. in Germany. Mr. Lehman added that prior to General Morgan's unauthorized remarks, his work in Germany had been "effective and satisfactory".

In his letter of apology, it was observed, General Morgan did not retract his original statement that some unnamed organization is sponsoring the migration of Polish Jews. He took full personal responsibility for the statement while absolving the U.N.R.R.A. from any connection with it or its implications.

News reports from Frankfurt attributing to General Joseph T. McNarney, commander of American Forces in Europe, indirect support for General Morgan's belief, meanwhile, drew from a spokesman at the U.N.R.R.A. an opinion that this was only an interpretation placed upon the general's report by newspapermen. General McNarney's report, while not actually mentioning the specific statements made by General Morgan, did say that the exodus of Jews from Poland to the American occupation zone is increasing.

from the French and British zones.

Jewish leaders present included Marc Jarblum of the French Jewish Committee; Rabbi Amram Blum, representing Palestine's chief rabbinate; Lieut. Abraham J. Klausner, of New Haven, Conn., representing the American Military Government's displaced persons branch; and Judge Simon Rifkind, adviser on Jewish questions to the United States Army forces in the European theatre.

Zalan Grinberg, of the Central Committee for Liberated Jews in Bavaria, said before the meeting that Jews were entering Germany from the east because their lives were endangered in Poland. He estimated that 13,000 to 15,000 had infiltrated Germany from the east since last autumn.

gime" with outright anti-Semitism.

The matter eventually was referred to Dr. Wright and the General Faculty, an elective organization of 105 members representing all college departments. The investigating committee was then appointed.

In its report, made public last week, the committee concluded that "neither of the major contentions alleged by the complainants to exist and to have required investigation has been established by the evidence," and declared that "it regards the evidence as warranting in some respects the definite conclusion that the conditions alleged do not exist."

Specifically the report stated it had found no evidence that supporters of Professor Knickerbocker had been favored and opponents punished; that Jewish members of the department have been discriminated against in the matter of promotions; that Jewish applicants for positions in the department have been turned down because of their race, or that preferential treatment had been given to Christians and to supporters of Professor Knickerbocker.

In a letter to Mayor O'Dwyer, of New York, Dr. Stephen S. Wise, president of the American Jewish Congress, demanded that all non-sectarian institutions that exercise prejudice in the admission of students be deprived of the public subsidy they now enjoy in the form of tax exemption. Dr. Wise requested the Mayor to enforce Section [illegible] of the [illegible] which [illegible] in [illegible] non-sectarian tax [illegible] deny the use of its facilities to any person otherwise qualified, by reason of his color, race or religion.

Racial discrimination against New York college students is to a large measure due to the failure of the city and State to provide adequate funds for the support of public higher education, Dr. William Withers, vice-president for colleges of the New York Teachers Guild declared. The city, he said, should take steps to establish publicly supported post-graduate schools, including public colleges of medicine and dentistry, where Negroes, Jews and Catholics will be freely admitted.

Immediate action to combat the racial and religious discrimination in New York colleges charged in a report to the Mayor's Committee on Unity was demanded by the United Parents Associations, the New York Teachers Guild and the head of the American Jewish Congress. They called upon Mayor O'Dwyer to take the lead in improving the situation depicted in the report.

Praising the report, the United Parents Associations, through Mrs. Rose Shapiro, president, urged Mayor O'Dwyer to continue the committee to help eradicate the "evils" it had brought into the open. The parents' group declared that it would begin a "vigorous campaign" to combat discrimination against New Yorkers seeking admission to institutions of higher learning.

"It is not a question of asking these people whether they want to stay in Belsen or go to Palestine," Colonel Gluckstein said. "Other alternatives should be given to the homeless ones in Palestine."

Lord Morrison, a member of the committee, asked Mr. Lipson about the reaction of his constituents to his being a Jew and Mr. Lipson replied that "at elections all sorts of things happen but never on the public platform did either of my opponents say I was unfit to represent Cheltenham because I was a Jew."

Lord Morrison said he had asked the question "as an interesting sidelight of British politics to the American members of the committee".

L. J. Stein, of the Anglo-Jewish Association, said that extensive emigration to Palestine should be allowed because there was no other country willing to take or capable of taking large numbers of Jews.
